

We will be meeting on Thursday, March 28th at 1:15pm in the Social Center. Dr. Jay Flottmann, both a physician and a pilot, will be speaking on Aviation Medicine. More specifically, he will be addressing some of the physiological factors which affect a pilot's performance and how performance can be improved. Dr. Flottmann has served as the flight surgeon for the USAF Thunderbirds, an FAA Medical Examiner, and was on the NASA team to research the hypoxia problem experienced by many fighter pilots. I think you'll find Dr. Flottmann engaging and interesting. Please come and join us! Everyone is welcome.
